9 DEAD, 72 HURT WHEN "SIGNALMAN" MISDIRECTS FLYER

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 3.—John Dewalt, the towerman at Winslow Junction, was arrested today at his home in Hammonton, N. J., by Lieutenant William Sickler, in charge of the detail of state troopers at Hammonton, who began an investigation of the wreck ten minutes after it occurred.

CAMDEN, N. J., July 3.—Prosecutor Woolverton, of Camden county, left at 10 o'clock this morning for Winslow Junction to begin an investigation of the Reading wreck.

WINSLOW JUNCTION, N. J., July 3.—A revised casualty list this afternoon put the number of dead in the wreck of the Philadelphia and Reading railroads "midnight flyer" at nine. Some of the 72 injured are so badly hurt it is feared they will die. Six of the dead have been identified. The identifications of another man was believed possible from cards in his pockets. The body of the engineer was still pinned in the wreckage of the locomotive. One injured man died while being taken to Atlantic City for treatment.

WINSLOW JUNCTION, N. J., July 3.—Twelve persons were killed and 72 injured when the "midnight flyer" on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad left the rails, thru the mistake of a signalman and plunged down a thirty foot embankment, near here early today, according to a complete casualty list issued by the state police at 10:30 o'clock.

17 Were Women

These figures were issued by Lieutenant John D. Syckler, who said that the state police were convinced that all of the bodies had been removed from the wreckage. It was established that 17 of the injured were women. Contrary to first reports none of the ten children on the train were badly hurt, although shaken up and scratched. Two of the injured women and some of the injured men are in serious condition at hospitals in Atlantic City and Camden.

One of the dead men was a negro porter employed in one of the two pullman cars on the train. He held his watch in his band. It had stopped at 12:24 o'clock.

Another dead man had a card in his pocket bearing the name "Saul North," American hotel, Mays' Landing, N. J."

75 Miles An Hour

It was estimated that the train, southbound was traveling 75 miles an hour to make up ten minutes lost time when she was thrown from the main line to an open switch on the Cape May branch.

Early reports that all the dead were in wooden cars was disproved by an investigation which showed that all the cars were of steel.

Those killed and injured in one of the pullman cars were victims to a freak of the wreck. When the train shot over the embankment the pullman attached to the engine reached the ground first and when the locomotive fell upon it half the car was smashed in.

"Everything was going along smoothly when suddenly the front of the train began to careen," said Mrs. Werler. "The next thing I knew we were all scrambling and fighting in pitch darkness for the lights had gone out and the car began to pitch like a ship in a storm. I fainted. The next thing I knew I was being lifted out of the wreckage and was being placed in an automobile. It was not until then that I realized I had been in a wreck. It was a sickening sight and I turned away from it. It was awful to hear the cries of men, women and children coming up out of the debris.

Auto Lights Help

"Automobiles began to arrive in great numbers. They were parked so their headlights shone upon the wreck and the rescue work was well under way in a short time."

WHEN RAIL BOARD ATTEMPTED FUTILE EFFORT TO STOP STRIKE

U. S. rail labor board in session. Below, rail executives with board.

Blame for failure to avert the rail strike is placed on the shoulders of Bert M. Jewell, head of the railroad shop crafts, by Ben Hooper chairman of the U. S. rail labor board. Jewell refused to attend a conference called by the board at which rail executives and union chiefs were to meet in an eleventh hour attempt to iron out their difficulties and avert the walkout.

280,000 MORE THREATEN TO JOIN STRIKE

DETROIT, Mich., July 3.—If the Railway Labor Board will vote to hold its wage cut order in abeyance until there can be a rehearing of the case, the strike order affecting 280,000 employees of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way and Railway Shop Workers will not be issued today, John Hall, secretary of the organization declared.

A strike is the last thing the executive committee will resort to, it was said.

Have Alternative Plans

Several alternative plans were to be discussed by the committee before strike action was to be taken, members of the board declared as that body met today at 10:15 a. m.

STRIKE IN ON ITS 3RD DAY

CHICAGO, July 3.—The strike of railway shop men in protest against wage reductions and certain practices of the railroads, entered its third day with each side to the controversy, making divergent claims.

Leaders of the strikers contend that the walkout is almost 100 per cent effective and that its consequences already are being felt by the railroads. Executives of the roads declare that so far the walkout has caused them no trouble and that service in no way has been hampered.

No reports of violence in connection with the strike have reached headquarters here.

The striking shopmen are counting strongly upon other railway unions joining in the strike within the next few days. If these expectations are realized more than one million men will be idle and the effect upon the railroads will unquestionably become more serious.

The executive board of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way employes will meet in Detroit today to decide its course. Strike ballots sent in by the membership of the brotherhood will be canvassed. If the ballots show that "from two-thirds to three-fourths of the membership favors a strike," E. F. Grable, president of the brotherhood, declared that a strike would be ordered.

Strikers Stone Cars

First signs of disorder in the Chicago district came today when twenty men gathered in the yards of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and stoned coaches standing on the tracks. The crowd had vanished when the police arrived.

Reports were received here that importation of strikebreakers at Perry, Ia., caused an outbreak at the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul shops there. Strikers drove the recruits into a corn field where they dispersed and none had returned today.

Would Break Strike.

KANSAS CITY, MO., July 3.—Efforts to break the strike of shop employees were begun today by the nine railroads maintaining shops in this city.

A call for men to take the strikers places was made and railroad officials stated that many men particularly machinists, were responding. Announcement was also made that those who had quit their jobs would lose all seniority and pension rights and that the new men hired would secure permanent employment.

Leave Places Vacant.

COLUMBUS, July 3.—Places left vacant at the local Pennsylvania railroad shops by striking shop crafts men are to be filled as according as possible by new men, according to announcement made by the railroad officials. Approximately 1800 employes of these shops joined in the nation-wide shops crafts men strike Saturday.

ACTION MEANS "BREAK" WITH LABOR CHIEFS

CHICAGO, July 3.—Railway employes who strike against decisions of the United States railway labor board were formally outlawed by the board in a resolution adopted today.

The board recommended that new unions or associations of employes remaining at work or hereafter joining the service of the roads be formed to take the place of the striking workmen.

Protect Non-Strikers.

Protection for all men remaining in the service of the roads or joining any new association that may be formed was promised insofar as it is in the power of the labor board to give it.

Action taken by the labor board means a definite break between the board and the railway employes department of the American Federation of Labor, which is directing the present strike of shopmen throughout the country. Unions who call strikes hereafter against the decisions of the board are automatically under the resolution and are not entitled to any benefits or privileges occuring under the labor board's decision.

Text of Resolution.

Whereas in the future submission of disputes involving rules, wages and grievances of employes of the carriers it will be desirable, if not a practical necessity, for the employes of each class on each carrier to form some sort of an association or organization to function in the representation of said employes before the railroad labor board, in order that the effectiveness of the transportation act may be maintained:

"Now, therefore, be it resolved and communicated to the carriers and the employes remaining in the service and the new employes succeeding those who have left the service, to take steps as soon as practicable to perfect on each carrier such organization as may be necessary, for the purposes above-mentioned and;

"Be it further resolved that the employes remaining in the service and the new ones entering same be accorded the application and benefit of the outstanding wage and rules decisions of the labor board until they are amended or modified by agreement with said employes, arrived at in conformity with the transportation act or by decision of this board and 'be it further resolved that if it be assumed that the employes who leave the service of the carriers because of their dissatisfaction with any decision of the labor board are within their rights in so doing it must likewise be conceded that the men who remain in the service and those who enter anew are within their rights in accepting such employment that they are not strikebreakers seeking to impose the arbitrary will of any employer on employes, that they have the moral as well as the legal right to engage in such service of the American public to avoid interruption of indispensible railroad transportation and that they are entitled to the protection of every department and branch of the government, state or national."

To Post Order

The order is to be posted by the railroad shops throughout the United States.

Minority members of the board comprising the three members of labor group, refused to accept the resolution. Adoption by the majority, however, makes the resolution official.

B. M. Jewell, head of the striking shopmen, refused to make comment on the action of the labor board in "outlawing" his organization. Jewell will issue a statement, probably tomorrow, after he has studied the board's latest edict.

MINE PARLEY IS ADJOURNED DEAD LOCKED

WASHINGTON, July 3.—President Harding's national coal conference held another protracted session behind closed doors today, finally adjourning until Monday, June 10, without breaking the deadlock which developed on Sunday or without progressing toward a settlement of the nation wide coal strike.

At the close of today's session, Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of Labor Davis the president's official representatives in the conference, declared "no agreement had been reached" on any of the points involved in the difficulties between the operators and the bituminous miners.

Both Hoover and Davis said they regarded the situation as "hopeful" because the conference was still being held intact and both combatant groups, despite their widening differences, were willing to continue the discussions in an effort to satisfy the demand of the administration for a settlement of the strike.

The government's peace plan was not outlined fully at the session today, though some of the points agreed on by the administration for settling the strike were discussed informally.

The informal conversations between the warring leaders of the coal industry led to heated argument and the session was described as a stormy one. The motion to adjourn for a week was made by Secretary Davis when it became evident that the quarrel of the operators and miners was becoming so acute that the conference was likely to break up with no result whatever.

FIVE ARRAIGNED IN POLICE COURT

Mayor Jones had a number of cases before him this morning to dispose of.

Rafe Smith, a colored man, became intoxicated Saturday night, and raised a disturbance at a West Broad street restaurant.

Later he became involved with a man named Jones with the result that blows were struck, and Smith was arrested. On the way to the police station he dropped a bottle of raisin jack on the side walk breaking it.

This morning it developed that Smith was arrested a week ago, for intoxication, and was released on his promise to appear in court Monday morning. This he failed to do. Mayor Jones fined him $25 and costs and he was committed to jail.

Mike Drager was fined $10 and costs on a disorderly conduct charge. He went to the home of a Western Heights woman where he had formerly boarded and raised a disturbance.

Tom Moran was fined $5 and costs on an intoxication charge.

C. D. Knapp and E. L. Dietrich were fined $5 and costs for violation of the traffic ordinance.

CITY FIREMAN IN HARD LUCK

Fireman Osborn of No. 1 station, was all out of luck Sunday when he went to partake of his Sunday dinner. He had bought some sliced ham and put it in the ice box in the hall way of the city hall, and when Patrolman Lloyd Sweet found it there Sunday morning he thought it had been purchased to feed the prisoners in the lock up with it, and proceeded to give it to them. Osborn looked for it at dinner time but it was gone. He had also bought some sugar for his coffee, and left it in the living room of the fire department. He went after the sugar, and found it full of red ants.

His fellows came to the rescue, so that he managed to get enough to eat for dinner.

RULES CHARGES IN PETITIONS NOT LIBELOUS

Important Decision Given in Miller Divorce Suit Which Was Followed by $10,000 Suit by Mrs. Pearl Smith

By a ruling handed down by Judge Thompson in the Common Pleas Court Monday it was decided that statements made in pleadings in court cases are privileged and even though the same may be libelous, the parties making such statements, if they are relevant and pertainent to the case, cannot be sued for damages.

The decision was given in the case of Pearl Smith vs. Ella Miller. Some weeks ago Mrs. Miller sued her husband, Henry Miller, for divorce, and in her petition made the following charge:

"That for about five years last past the defendant has more or less been in company with one Pearl Smith, he taking her on automobile rides and being at her home at all seasons, both day and night."

Feeling aggrieved at this charge which was made in an action to which she was not a party, Mrs. Smith filed suit against Mrs. Miller for libel and asked damages in the sum of $10,000.00. A demurrer was filed to her petition by Mrs. Miller, which squarely raised the question as to whether language in a pleading is absolutely or qualifiedly privileged.

This exact question, said Judge Thompson, has never been determined by the Supreme Court of Ohio, though cases were cited by him which did not grow out of judicial proceedings, in which it was held that statements that are pertinent and material to the case at issue and are necessary to a full presentation and essential to the

Fred Dobson, 50, of 345 1-2 Twelfth street, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when he fell forward between a team of horses he was driving, and a heavily loaded wagon passed over his body.

Dobson was employed by William Vogler and Sunday was engaged in hauling dirt from the West avenue undercut. While driving north on West avenue near Tremont street, he lost his balance and fell forward to the ground. The horses kept going and the wagon passed over him. He was taken to the hospital in Jenkins ambulance and died soon after arrival there.

In the absence of Coroner Miles Perry, Justice J. C. Conaway was called and gave a verdict of accidental death.

CINCINNATI, July 3. — As a result of a three-story tenement fire caused by a gas explosion here early Sunday morning, Mrs. Rose Ripley, 34, is dead, and her husband, John Ripley, 36, is in a critical condition at the City hospital. Every window in the building was shattered by the explosion and the terror stricken tenants fled half dressed into the street. Five fomen and three men tranped on the top floor were carried down ladders to safety by firemen. The fire was started when Mr. and Mrs. Ripley returned home late and struck a match in the hall igniting a gas pocket formed by a leaking pipe in the cellar.

Sheriff John B. Rapp, of Clermont county, where the shooting occurred said last night Auxier was wounded by Burtrum Sparks, who gave himself up at once and had been in jail since on a charge of shooting with intent to kill.

CLEVELAND, July 3.—"That house and 'fly cop' are both jynxes."

Thus mused Charles Anderson, of Jamestown, N. Y., today as he sat in Lakewood city prison today following his arrest at the home of George D. Rowland on Clifton boulevard yesterday.

It was Anderson's second arrest on a charge of housebreaking and larceny of the Rowland home in both cases the arresting officer was Detective Fred A. Kintzler.

Two years ago, Anderson was was given an indeterminate sentence in Mansfield reformatory, upon this charge, from which institution he was recently released. Yesterday Rowland returning from an auto trip, saw that some one was at work in his home. The police were called. Detective Kintzler responded and when he entered found that his prisoner was the same man he had taken in the same room two years ago.

"It's my old friend Anderson," he said as he told him to hold his hands high.

Anderson did not respond.

9 Dead, 72 Hurt

Conductor Burned

John Mace, conductor of the train was badly burned about the body and it was feared he would die. He was taken to Atlantic City for treatment.

Traffic was held up on three railroads which converge at Winslow Junction; the Pennsylvania, Central Railroad of New Jersey and the Reading. Soon freight trains were accumulating along all these tracks for many miles. Late arrivals among the relief workers had to clamber over and under these freight trains to reach the scene.

Dr. Frederick T. Burk and Dr. Charles Cunningham were put in charge of the main relief station established here.

The train had left the track with such terrific force that more tha n750 feet of tracks were torn up and all wires were pulled down, crippling the Winslow lighting system.

Man Is Hero

The hero of the disaster was an unidentified man whose ring and watch bore the initials "J. T. L." He was pinned beneath two seats and his two arms were nearly torn from his body. Despite his injuries he told the relief workers not to mind him but to save two other persons who were caught in the wreckage near him. He directed the work of rescue and was the last to be taken out. He died ten minutes later.

Identified Dead

The identified dead in the wreck of the Reading Railroad's "midnight flyer" at Winslow Junction, N. J., early today follow:

W. T. Souder, Atlantic City, fireman.

Joseph Dilisna, Pleasantville, N. J., a passenger.

Sol Worth, Cape May, N. J., a passenger.

Walter Wescott, Gloucester, N. J., engineer.

John T. Lindehan, Philadelphia, passenger.

T. N. Selden, pullman porter

Francis Corbett, Philadelphia, passenger.

The identification of North was not positive, but cards found in his pocket made it virtually certain that North was his name.

Seriously Injured

Among the most seriously injured who were taken to Atlantic City hotels for treatment were: Daniel Phelan, Atlantic City; Arthur Parker, Philadelphia, pullman conductor; Mrs. Leila Gutlohn, Philadelphia, Isadore Middleman, Atlantic City.

Railroad Issues Wreck Statement

PHILADELPHIA, July 3—The following statement was issued by the Philadelphia & Reading on the wreck at Winslow Junction.

"The Atlantic City railroad train number 33, leaving Camden for Atlantic City at 10.40 p. m. Saturday night, was derailed at the interlocking plant at Winslow Junction about 11.20 p. m.

"The train consisted of a steel Pullman car, four steel coaches and one steel combination car, and carried ninety passengers leaving Camden. It was manned by the following crew: Walter Scott, engineman; William T. Souder, fireman; John Nace, conductor, Geo F. Fisher, baggage master, and Johnathan K Miller, trainman.

"Six persons were killed, including the engineman, fireman and Pullman porter.

"Thirty-two persons injured have been taken to the Atlantic City hospital and one to Cooper hospital, Camden. Others with slight injuries went to homes at Atlantic City.

"At Winslow Junction the Cape May branch of the Atlantic City railroad diverges from the main line. The switches are controlled by an interlocking plant, which was in charge of John F. Dewalt, an experienced operator who entered the service November 18 1898, and was employed at Winslow Junction since entering the service. He had set the switches for the movement to the Cape May branch seemingly in the belief that a train of empty passenger coaches which had previously passed, was train number 33. The signals as displayed apparently were not observed by the engineman of train number 33, who took the junction switch at full speed. This caused the derailment.

Engineman Westcott was an experienced engineer employed June 10 1906 and promoted to engineman June 21 1909.

"A searching investigation into the accident will be promptly conducted by the management, in conjunction with representatives of the inter-state commerce commissioners of New Jersey.

"Charles H. Ewing, vice president."

MARION READY TO CELEBRATE

President to Invade Home City on Its 100th Anniversary

MARION, July 3.—With the presentation this morning of the keys of the city to Captain Charles Eber Baker of Chicago, grandson of Eber Baker, father of Marion, the celebration of the centennial of the city's founding was officially opened.

The exercises took place at the large reviewing stand constructed at the edge of the city's downtown business section and the address of welcome was spoken by Mayor George W. Neely.

Captain Baker, a veteran of the Civil war, spoke briefly, telling interesting reminiscences, and another short address was delivered by Judge William Z. Davis of Columbus, former member of the Ohio supreme court.

Everything is in readiness for the welcome home this evening of President and Mrs. Warren G. Harding, who are enroute for their first visit since the inaugural ceremonies in March of last yer. Tomorrow afternon there will be a presidential salute of twenty-one guns and the president will deliver a friendly greeting to his townsfolk.

Rainbow Division veterans this afternoon are holding a reunion here and this afternoon and evening the principal musical events of the centennial will take place.

Rains Slow Up Trip

ENROUTE WITH PRESIDENT HARDING, UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 3.—Barring mishaps, President Harding today will realize that ambition which has been held at some time or other by every American youth. He will drive into his old home town, scene of his early struggles, as president of the United States. Thousands of his fellow Ohioans and Marion folk, many of whom he can call by their first names and to whom he is simply "W. G." are gathering there today to do him honor.

The president plans to make Marion this evening if possible to do it, although a stiff day's driving was in prospect when the party left Uniontown early this morning. The almost incessant rain which has accompanied the presidential party since leaving Washington, making motoring difficult as well as dangerous, over the slippery roads, has given way to clearer weather. The route today led through Washington, Pa., Wheeling, W. Va., Cambridge, Zanesville and Columbus.

President Harding has kept on the move so constantly since leaving Washington that he has had little opportunity to keep abreast of the developments in the coal conference and the railroad strike.

CLEVELAND COUNCIL TAKES UP GAS QUESTION TONIGHT

CLEVELAND, July 3.—An initiated ordinance providing for a settlement of the long pending gas issue will be presented to city council tonight. Charles "Time Clock" Hubbell, candidate for the democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, announced today. Hubbell's proposed ordinance provides that large users may be penalized by charging higher rates for gas consumed, but that the penalty charges shall be equally divided between the city and the gas company, instead of all going to the gas company as under present conditions.

accomplishment of the object sought, are privileged, and that an action will not lie for statements made in a pleading if the statements are honestly made, without malice and are made upon probable cause and under advice of counsel.

Mrs. Smith not being a party to the Millers' divorce case, the question arose as to whether that fact had any bearing upon the issue raised by the demurrer under consideration. The courts have held, said Judge Thompson, that this rule of privilege is applicable although the party claimed to be defamed was not a party to the action in which the pleading containing libelous statements was filed; in other words the fact that the person was not a party to the action will not detract from the privileged character of the publication.

As to whether Mrs. Smith's allegation that the alleged libelous statements were prompted by actual malice, a leading case was cited by Judge Thompson which held that even though false and alleged with malice such statements, if pertinent and relevant, can never give a right of action for libel. The theory of privilege in this connection has been defended by courts and law writers on the ground that the pleadings are addressed to the Court alone and to no other readers.

After a careful examination of available authorities in various States, Judge Thompson was of the opinion that notwithstanding the negative averments contained in Mrs. Smith's petition, the alleged libelous words are in law privileged on the ground of public policy, and not actionable. The demurrer was therefore sustained.

Judge Thompson's opinion was rendered in the presence of a large array of lawyers, and at its close Judge D. J. Nye and Judge A. R. Webber, veteran members of the bar, expressed their concurrence with the views stated and suggested that owing to its importance the opinion should be published in the Ohio Nisi Prius Reports for the benefit of lawyers throughout the State.

A SWEET LITTLE BABY BOY

Makes a Bright Spot in Every Home. A Comfort in Years to Come

Park Rapids, Minnesota.—"I have taken your medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—when I was a girl for pains and before and after my marriage. I now have a sweet little baby boy and will send you his picture if you wish to publish it. My sisters also take your medicine and find it a great help, and I recommend it to those who suffer before their babies are born."—Mrs. WM. JOHNSON, Box 155, Park Rapids, Minn.

To marry and arrive at middle age without children is a great disappointment to many women. Think of the joy and comfort other women have in their children as they grow older.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped to bring great happiness to many families by restoring women to health. Often the childless home is due to a run down condition of the wife, which may be helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It brought health and happiness into the home of Mrs. Johnson. SILENCE LACK OF AUTHORITY, ACTION, ADDS TO MASSACRES

HERRIN, Ills., July 3.—A conspiracy of silence, unparalleled in American criminal history, exists today in "bloody Williamson" county.

It is a conspiracy to shield from punishment every guilty participant in the dreadful massacre of nine days ago when at least a score of despised strikebreakers were slaughtered.

Some local authorities "conservatively" estimate the number slain at about forty.

So far but one puny effort to apprehend the guilty is in prospect. This is a grand jury investigation which is to be started at Marion, the county seat, after the July term of circuit court is begun on the tenth of this month. It is purely a county investigation.

The State of Illinois has taken no steps to definitely fix the responsibility for the massacre. Neither has the national government.

No One Talks

Although it is certain that hundreds of men in the county know who did the actual slaying, no one will talk. In "bloody Williamson" the recent slaughter of lives is regarded as a lesson, not to be soon forgotten by the enemies of union coal miners. Moreover, it is generally referred to as a "closed incident."

Black secrets in the hearts of many men in the county will never be revealed, it is predicted, unless some unexpected and astounding development shall occur.

The community is "mum." No one, even the innocent, who may know the guilty, dare talk.

Even the ministry is silent.

"We are afraid to talk," said a prominent minister who took part in the burial ceremonies for the victims, said when asked for an interview.

"Please don't mention my name in your despatches," he pleaded.

Another minister, he said, was so crushed over the tragic happenings that he planned to leave town, but was persuaded to remain on the plea that he had real work to do in the bloodstained community.

For twenty-five years lawlessness has been rampant in "bloody Williamson." First it was feuds, the Kentuckians had come across the border and settled in southern Illinois and, incidentally, settled in their own unique way their troubles. One way was the taking of men from their churches on Sunday morning and shooting them.

Like Old "Wild West"

Then came the great coal boom, when town like Herrin, Carterville, West Frankfort, Ziegler and Johnson City sprang up like the frontier boom towns of the old "wild and woolly west." Williamson county today is not unlike the old wild west.

All these coal towns have the same common characteristics. They are highly organized by miners. Every working man—and woman for that matter—is union. Each town has its large element of foreigners. The towns are young. They all have their illicit booze. Herrin is said to have twenty-seven saloons. Booze is as easily obtainable as groceries. Competition among the bootleggers in the county is so keen that price cuts have been forced.

Crime has been rampant in "bloody Williamson," for years, particularly in Ziegler and West Frankfort.

The people live in good looking homes. The communities look prosperous. The miners made big money in recent years and they are noted spenders. They have their own code. They bar negroes, they "ran them out" during strike troubles of other days. The agricultural counties nearby, however, harbor many colored persons.

Ban Reckless Talking

Men value their lives in this rugged atmosphere as well as elsewhere. Those who "know something" concerning the massacre realize that reckless conservation on their part will surely mean slow music and flowers. The local authorities know the same thing. The most any official in this part of Illinois has said derogatory to the massacre participants was that it was "deplorable thing."

None of them have really tried to penetrate the conspiracy of silence—and, it is safe to say, none of them ever will.

CHIROPRACTIC

Consists Entirely of Adjusting the Movable Segments of the Spinal Column to Normal Position

EXTRA, A MESSAGE TO YOU

Daily we hear the cry of the street venders, our newsboys, delivering messages of new happenings and worldly occurrences. The general public is continually seeking new methods—something that surpasses in value of that which already exists.

The average person is selfish and wants the best and most value in service and products that he is willing to pay for.

One discovery, while practically new, yet one that has rendered service to suffering humanity during the past quarter of a century is, CHIROPRACTIC.

It is distinctively an individual science. This fact alone is one reason for its phenomenal growth. Its rapid progress is evidenced by the large number of spinal adjustments given daily throughout the world. Statistics prove that in the United States alone, over a quarter of a million people have their spines adjusted daily. It does not treat, heal nor cure, but locates the cause of disease and removes it—health resulting.

You are vitally interested in your health. Chiropractic spinal adjustments give you sound nerves, essential to good health.

Consult your chiropractor today.

The Chiropractor does not treat the trouble, if there is trouble, but looks for its cause. He finds it and fixes it; and then Nature effects the "Cure."

(RIGHTS RESERVED)

The United Chiropractic Board of Education appointed the following committee of chiropractors to carry on an educational campaign for the science of chiropractic. Articles will be published in this newspaper each Monday.

9 DEAD, 72 HURT WHEN "SIGNALMAN" MISDIRECTS FLYER

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 3.—John Dewalt, the towerman at Winslow Junction, was arrested today at his home in Hammonton, N. J., by Lieutenant William Sickler, in charge of the detail of state troopers at Hammonton, who began an investigation of the wreck ten minutes after it occurred.

CAMDEN, N. J., July 3.—Prosecutor Woolverton, of Camden county, left at 10 o'clock this morning for Winslow Junction to begin an investigation of the Reading wreck.

WINSLOW JUNCTION, N. J., July 3.—A revised casualty list this afternoon put the number of dead in the wreck of the Philadelphia and Reading railroads "midnight flyer" at nine. Some of the 72 injured are so badly hurt it is feared they will die. Six of the dead have been identified. The identifications of another man was believed possible from cards in his pockets. The body of the engineer was still pinned in the wreckage of the locomotive. One injured man died while being taken to Atlantic City for treatment.

WINSLOW JUNCTION, N. J., July 3.—Twelve persons were killed and 72 injured when the "midnight flyer" on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad left the rails, thru the mistake of a signalman and plunged down a thirty foot embankment, near here early today, according to a complete casualty list issued by the state police at 10:30 o'clock.

17 Were Women

These figures were issued by Lieutenant John D. Syckler, who said that the state police were convinced that all of the bodies had been removed from the wreck age. It was established that 17 of the injured were women. Contrary to first reports none of the ten children on the train were badly hurt, although shaken up and scratched. Two of the injured women and some of the injured men are in serious condition at hospitals in Atlantic City and Camden.

One of the dead men was a negro porter employed in one of the two pullman cars on the train. He held his watch in his band. It had stopped at 12:24 o'clock.

Another dead man had a card in his pocket bearing the name "Saul North," American hotel, Mays' Landing, N. J."

75 Miles An Hour

It was estimated that the train, southbound was traveling 75 miles an hour to make up ten minutes lost time when she was thrown from the main line to an open switch on the Cape May branch.

Early reports that all the dead were in wooden cars was disproved by an investigation which showed that all the cars were of steel.

Those killed and injured in one of the pullman cars were victims to a freak of the wreck. When the train shot over the embankment the pullman attached to the engine reached the ground first and when the locomotive fell upon it half the car was smashed in.

"Everything was going along smoothly when suddenly the front of the train began to careen," said Mrs. Werler. "The next thing I knew we were all scrambling and fighting in pitch darkness for the lights had gone out and the car began to pitch like a ship in a storm. I fainted. The next thing I knew I was being lifted out of the wreckage and was being placed in an automobile. It was not until then that I realized I had been in a wreck. It was a sickening sight and I turned away from it. It was awful to hear the cries of men, women and children coming up out of the debris.

RULES CHARGES IN PETITIONS NOT LIBELOUS

Important Decision Given in Miller Divorce Suit Which Was Followed by $10,000 Suit by Mrs. Pearl Smith

By a ruling handed down by Judge Thompson in the Common Pleas Court Monday it was decided that statements made in pleadings in court cases are privileged and even though the same may be libelous, the parties making such statements, if they are relevant and pertainent to the case, cannot be sued for damages.

The decision was given in the case of Pearl Smith vs Ella Miller. Some weeks ago Mrs. Miller sued her husband, Henry Miller, for divorce, and in her petition made the following charge:

"That for about five years last past the defendant has more or less been in company with one Pearl Smith, he taking her on automobile rides and being at her home at all seasons, both day and night."

Feeling aggrieved at this charge which was made in an action to which she was not a party, Mrs. Smith filed suit against Mrs. Miller for libel and asked damages in the sum of $10,000.00. A demurrer was filed to her petition by Mrs. Miller, which squarely raised the question as to whether language in a pleading is absolutely or qualifiedly privileged.

This exact question, said Judge Thompson, has never been determined by the Supreme Court of Ohio, though cases were cited by him which did not grow out of judicial proceedings, in which it was held that statements that are pertinent and material to the case at issue and are necessary to a full presentation and essential to the

CLEVELAND, July 3.—'That house and 'fly cop' are both jynxes."

Thus mused Charles Anderson, of Jamestown, N. Y., today as he sat in Lakewood city prison today following his arrest at the home of George D. Rowland on Clifton boulevard yesterday.

It was Anderson's second arrest on a charge of housebreaking and larceny of the Rowland home. In both cases the arresting officer was Detective Fred A. Kintzler.

Two years ago, Anderson was was given an indeterminate sentence in Mansfield reformatory, upon this charge, from which institution he was recently released. Yesterday Rowland returning from an auto trip, saw that some one was at work in his home. The police were called. Detective Kintzler responded and when he entered found that his prisoner was the same man he had taken in the same room two years ago.

"It's my old friend Anderson," he said as he told him to hold his hands high.

Anderson did not respond.

280,000 MORE THREATEN TO JOIN STRIKE

DETROIT, Mich., July 3.—If the Railway Labor Board will vote to hold its wage cut order in abeyance until there can be a rehearing of the case, the strike order affecting 280,000 employees of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way and Railway Shop Workers will not be issued today, John Hall, secretary of the organization declared.

A strike is the last thing the executive committee will resort to, it was said.

Have Alternative Plans

Several alternative plans were to be discussed by the committee before strike action was to be taken, members of the board declared as that body met today at 10.15 a. m.

STRIKE IN ON ITS 3RD DAY

CHICAGO, July 3.—The strike of railway shop men in protest against wage reductions and certain practices of the railroads, entered its third day with each side to the controversy, making divergent claims.

Leaders of the strikers contend that the walkout is almost 100 per cent effective and that its consequences already are being felt by the railroads. Executives of the roads declare that so far the walkout has caused them no trouble and that service in no way has been hampered.

No reports of violence in connection with the strike have reached headquarters here.

The striking shopmen are counting strongly upon other railway unions joining in the strike within the next few days. If these expectations are realized more than one million men will be idle and the effect upon the railroads will unquestionably become more serious.

The executive board of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way employes will meet in Detroit today to decide its course. Strike ballots sent in by the membership of the brotherhood will be canvassed. If the ballots show that "from two-thirds to three-fourths of the membership favors a strike," E. F. Grable, president of the brotherhood, declared that a strike would be ordered.

Strikers Stone Cars

First signs of disorder in the Chicago district came today when twenty men gathered in the yards of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and stoned coaches standing on the tracks. The crowd had vanished when the police arrived.

Reports were received here that importation of strikebreakers at Perry, Ia., caused an outbreak at the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul shops there. Strikers drove the recruits into a corn field where they dispersed and none had returned today.

Would Break Strike.

KANSAS CITY, MO., July 3—Efforts to break the strike of shop employees were begun today by the nine railroads maintaining shops in this city.

A call for men to take the strikers places was made and railroad officials stated that many men particularly machinists, were responding. Announcement was also made that those who had quit their jobs would lose all seniority and pension rights and that the new men hired would secure permanent employment.

Leave Places Vacant.

COLUMBUS, July 3.—Places left vacant at the local Pennsylvania railroad shops by striking shop crafts men are to be filled as according as possible by new men, according to announcement made by the railroad officials. Approximately 1800 employes of these shops joined in the nation-wide shops crafts men strike Saturday.

NO PAPER TUESDAY

There will be no paper issued from this office tomorrow on account of its being the Fourth of July and a legal holiday. The members of the force will scatter to their favorite vacation spots, and expect to enjoy themselves, weather permitting.

MINE PARLEY IS ADJOURNED DEAD LOCKED

WASHINGTON, July 3.—President Harding's national coal conference held another protracted session behind closed doors today, finally adjourning until Monday, June 10, without breaking the deadlock which developed on Sunday or without progressing toward a settlement of the nation wide coal strike.

At the close of today's session, Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of Labor Davis the president's official representatives in the conference, declared "no agreement had been reached" on any of the points involved in the difficulties between the operators and the bituminous miners.

Both Hoover and Davis said they regarded the situation as "hopeful" because the conference was still being held intact and both combatant groups, despite their widening differences, were willing to continue the discussions in an effort to satisfy the demand of the administration for a settlement of the strike.

The government's peace plan was not outlined fully at the session today, though some of the points agreed on by the administration for settling the strike were discussed informally.

The informal conversations between the warring leaders of the coal industry led to heated argument and the session was described as a stormy one. The motion to adjourn for a week was made by Secretary Davis when it became evident that the quarrel of the operators and miners was becoming so acute that the conference was likely to break up with no result whatever.

MANY ATTENDED SUNDAY NIGHT U. SERVICE

There was a large attendance at the union church service held last evening at the United Presbyterian church. Rev. A. Egli, Jr., pastor of St. Matthew's Evangelical church of Cleveland delivered a sermon upon the text, "All the ways of man are clean in his own eyes, but the Lord weigheth the spirits," Proverbs 16:2.

Rev. Egli's earnestness of manner and originality of thought and expression commanded the attention of the audience. The speaker stated that man is much more willing to give excuses to justify his acts than he is to accept God's standards of righteousness. He also said that people regard the punishment they receive for their waywardness as a misfortune rather than as a blessing as they should.

Excellent music had been prepared for the occasion. The United Presbyterian choir sang an anthem "We Praise Thee, O Lord," by Wilson. George W. Philpott sang an impressive solo, "Hold Thou My Hand" by Briggs. The next union service will be held at St. Paul's Evangelical church. Dr. C. D. Castle, formerly pastor of the Methodist church at Bedford, O., will deliver the sermon.

Cucumber Beetles Are Menacing The Cucumber and Squash Vines

By Elyria Home Garden Association

Cucumber beetles are doing considerable damage at the present time to cucumber and squash vines.

These insects are about one-quarter of an inch long and have black and yellow stripes running lengthwise of the back. They feed greedily upon the leaves of cucumbers and squash, particularly the younger leaves. They also have the habit of crawling into the ground around the stems of the plant, where they do much damage by eating the stem just above the root. The young hatch from eggs laid about the stem and eat vigorously when in the worm or larvae stage. This usually causes the plants to wilt and die within a few days.

Treatment

These insects may be held in check and destroyed by spraying the plants with arsenate of lead. Mix one teaspoon, heapingfull of arsenate of lead powder in one pint of water and apply with sprayer. The leaves should be kept fairly well covered.

To prevent the beetles from crawling around the roots, feeding and laying their eggs, a dust mixture of lime, ashes and a little sulphur dusted on the soil around the plants will drive them away. This may be used on the leaves also.

The plants should be kept in a good growing condition by fertilizing and cultivating, which will help them to withstand the attacks of the insects.

In Mexico, when a young man takes a young lady to a place of entertainment, it is the custom of the lady's father to pay for the tickets and furnish the taxi, the supper, etc.

Wait-Him-Out Champion To Leave the Big Leagues

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Oh, happy day for the wild pitchers. But a sad one for the veteran fans of the American League

For Jack Graney, dean of the Cleveland Indians, is to depart from the big show—to manage the Des Moines Western League club according to word from Cleveland

"He's the hardest man in the world to pitch to," was the unanimous verdict of the hurlers regarding Graney. And he rightfully earned that title. Twice did he lead the American League batters in drawing passes. Other years he ranked among the leaders, injuries keeping him from the game at times and preventing him from running up a larger total

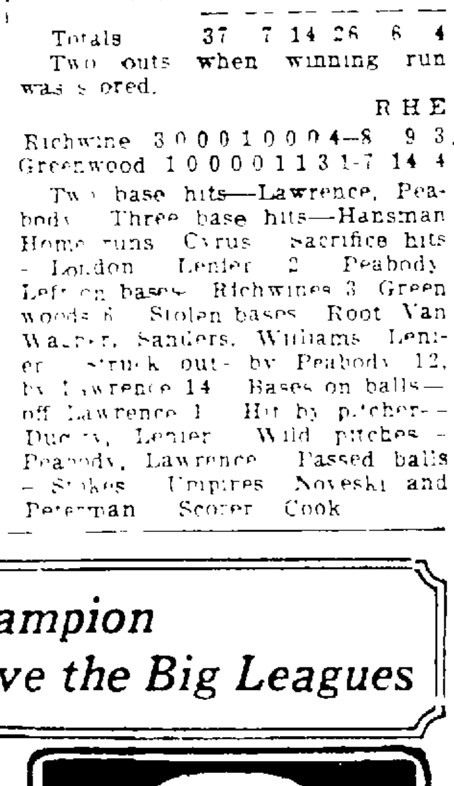

And once on the bases he was a dangerous man. He was fast and heady

Graney will tell you himself that as a pitcher he became a darn good outfielder

He began his baseball career with his home town semi-pro team in St Thomas, Ont., in 1905. The next year he played with Fulton in the Empire State League and his pitching attracted the attention of big league scouts. The cubs landed him but farmed him to Rochester. His wildness caused Rochester to let him down to Wilkesbarre. Cleveland then acquired him but, failing to cure his wildness, sent him to Columbus and then to Portland

Then he was set on the road to fame. The Portland bosses moved him to the outfield during the 1909 season and he played so brilliantly that the Cleveland club recalled him. He became the regular sun fielder in 1910 and held that berth until 1920 with the exception of two seasons when a right hand-left hand shift was in vogue in left field

I happened to know Graney pretty well and know that his greatest assets to the Cleveland club were his personality and his ready efforts to keep harmony on the team under all conditions. Graney has made hay while the baseball sun shone. In off months he has studied medicine and can hang out his M. D. sign when his baseball days are over. But a legion of fans will want to see him in the game in some capacity for years to come.

Jack Graney.

AMHERST WINS FROM AVON IN 15TH INNING

AMHERST, July 3—The Amherst Merchants' baseball team defeated the Avon City team at Avon yesterday afternoon. After 15 innings of hard playing the locals started a rally, the final score being 8-3. Bark was again on the mound for the Merchants and is credited with 14 strike outs in the 15 innings. Becker did some excellent hitting for the local lads, securing a double and a triple.

Tagging The Bases

With home runs to the left of them and home runs to the right of them, the Yanks and Athletics made a one day appearance at the Polo grounds to the ultimate embarrassment of the visitors, 9 to 3

Alexander Blithely bowlded the Pirates over and the Cubs went on to win, 5 to 1, the old master getting by with seven hits.

The Cards gained a full game while the Giants enjoyed a siesta, winning both games of a doubleheader barrelled engagement with the Reds, 8 to 3, and 2 to 1.

There must be a break in everything, even legs, and therefore the White Sox winning streak of eight straight was finally broken by the Tigers, who pummelled Robertson and Hodge for a 12 to 6 victory.

The Dodgers again picked on the Braves, this time taking them over the jumps in a double header, scores 8 to 6 and six to 3. In consequence, the Braves are running a strong last again.

Ken Williams continued to step along at the head of the parade by socking his twentieth homer of the season with Sisler and McManus aboard, the Browns taking the Indians for the fourth straight time, 9 to 5

Walter Johnson's succession of scoreless innings reached thirty when the Red Sox scored in the 4th and ultimately won, 2 to 1 from the Senators.

ELYRIA EAGLES LOSE GAME TO VALLEY CITY

The Eagles base ball team lost a hard fought game at Valley City Sunday by a score of 4 to 1. Valley City team displayed a good brand of clean base ball and won fairly. Hastings pitched well for the Valley City team, and Spicer pitched equally as well for the Eagles. Spicer allowed four hits, and Hastings seven.

Manager Mason of the Eagles states that the reports that Valley City did not give outside teams a square deal was not verified in their case Sunday. He also says "The Valley City boys are real sports and gave us a fair and square game. Both umpires were furnished by Valley City and they were fair to both teams"

The Eagles will go to Sandusky tomorrow where they will stack up against the strong Esmond Dairy's.

MY MARRIAGE PROBLEMS
Adele Garrison's New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

The Way Madge Contrived to Win a Much-Needed Rest.

INTO my father's face flashed a look of alarm when he saw me standing outside his door. I reached up swiftly, covered his lips with my hand and stifled the exclamation upon them. Then I slipped past him into his room, while he closed the door behind me.

"Nothing is the matter, Father, dear," I said reassuringly. "On the contrary, I think I have solved the problem Mr. Drake gave me."

He stooped and kissed me warmly.

"My darling girl!" he said tenderly, and there was in his voice the pride of parenthood. Then he looked at me keenly.

"You must have worked all night," he said with quick concern.

"I have," I returned smiling, "and that is the reason for my early call. I want you to tell a mild falsehood for me. Otherwise I would not have roused you."

"If fancy I can stretch my conscience that far," he returned. "What is it you wish me to say?"

Father Spencer Stands by.

"That I was kept awake last night by one of my headaches, that I am better now and am going to sleep until noon. Lillian will look after things. She will probably offer to type for you the letters with which last night we commenced Mr. Drake's work. You remember you said you might have others for me to type." I paused uncertainly.

"I will have some ready for her if she does," he replied, smiling, "and I shall see that you are not disturbed. But," anxiously, "have you had anything to eat?"

"Some hot milk and sandwiches." I returned, "all I needed or wished. And I can go to sleep now with a clear conscience. Please call me at noon if I shouldn't waken before then."

"No" he said decidedly "I shall not do that. You must sleep until you awaken by yourself. I insist upon that. You have accomplished a wonderful feat, my child, and you are more exhausted than you think. You will obey me?"

His question was a demand.

"Of course, Father" I said. "I am really very glad to obey you" and when I had returned to my own room and was drifting into the sleep I sorely needed, the memory of his tender insistance was like a warm cloak wrapping me, protecting me.

A Moment of Regret.

It was nearly dusk when I finally awoke, and when I had dressed and come downstairs I found that my father had made every one believe firmly in the fiction of my headache. I felt like an impostor when Lillian, Marion, my mother-in-law and Katie one after the other, made solicitous inquiries about my feelings but when Junior climbed into my lap, and with big awed eyes, looked up into my face and said anxiously "Mama's head feel so bad. Doover rub it," I snatched the little outstretched hands to my lips and buried my face in his curls for a poignant, reproachful instant. All my pleasurable triumph in the successful solving of the thing which had baffled Allen Drake fled away for the instant, as I saw, murky against the pellucid light of my baby's innocence, the ruse I had thought so necessary.

But I knew I must let no hint of my qualms appear so I hugged Junior lightly, assured him that my head was "all well," persuaded Katie with difficulty to change the hearty meal she wished to cook for me to some coffee and toast and welcomed with glad relief my father's low-toned request to come to his room when I had finished eating.

"Bring your completed work with you," he said, so when I entered his room I was not surprised to see Allen Drake again ensconced in the easy chair by the fire, despite my father's dictum of the day before that he should rest longer before taking up the matter of the code again.

That he was in far better shape, however, than on the day before, I could see readily. He sprang to his feet when I entered the room in quite his old fashion, but the haste with which he crossed the room to me and held out his hand betrayed the feverish excitement which was his over the task I had undertaken for him.

"You father tells me you have solved it!" he cried, and for answer, with pulses throbbing so that I thought surely they must be heard, I laid my completed work in his outstretched hands.

ASSERTS LEADERSHIP OF GOVERNMENT IS NEEDED

COLUMBUS, July 3.—That real leadership is lacking in the United States government now, at a time when it is needed the most, is the assertion made by W. E. Gueria, vice president of the Guardian Savings & Trust company, Cleveland, and president of the Bankers' Association for Foreign Trade, addressing the Columbus Chamber of Commerce Forum.

SHEEP THRIVE ON RAPE WHEN PASTURE FAILS

A temporary pasture of rape, in the absence of second crop clover, may profitably supplement bluegrass, which is recognized as the standard pasture grass wherever sheep are raised, but should not be considered an all-season pasture.

Sheep and lambs thrive and fatten on blue grass during the early summer months but with the coming of hot dry days this grass becomes dry and unpalatable. Unless a very large area is available for pasture the sheep loose weight and become unthrifty thus throwing themselves open to parasitic infestation. When the fall rains come bluegrass again makes good growth and becomes palatable and nutritious.

It is during the hot summer months that some other pasture should be provided for the flock, especially the growing and fattening lambs. The quickly growing annual forage crops are fast coming into favor among successful sheep raisers.

In three experiments with the lambs at the southeastern test farm of the Ohio Experiment Station, an acre of rape produced on an average as much gain as 7.5 acres of bluegrass during the time the rape was pastured, or as much as 3.7 acres of bluegrass during the entire season. One plot of rape in this test carried an average of 24 lambs per acre for 75 days and produced 206 pounds of gain per acre. Another plot carried on an average 16 lambs per acre for 131 days producing 562 pounds of gain per acre.

Harrison of Lincoln, Neb., as a member of the American commission to the Brazilian exposition, it was announced at commission headquarters today. Harrison was accused by R. C. MONDAY, JULY 3, 1922

A SANE FOURTH

A notable change has come about in recent years in [th]e celebration of the great national holiday. Through [la]w and through the education of public opinion a much [sa]ner practice has grown up.

...It was a dying statesman who gave the first impulse [to] the noisy celebration which grew into wanton vandal[is]m and resulted in many painful tragedies. The old [st]ory of the boy who on Fourth of July night was asked [if] he had anything more to shoot off had a good deal of [po]int to it. "Yes," he replied, "two fingers and a [th]umb."

All have recollections of boys fatally shot by a com[pa]nion, of eyes blinded through seeing why the fire[cr]acker was not going off, and of blood poisoning from [sli]ght surface wounds. Besides, there was the destruc[ti]on of property and the general pranks which, to say the [le]ast, were a serious annoyance to older folk.

The larger improvements of modern life have great[ly] helped the situation. In the earlier years the people [we]re very closely bound to one spot. The trolley car [an]d the automobile and the bicycle are all comparative[ly] recent. But their coming has wrought a revolution. [Th]e whole family may now go into the country, to the [lake] side, or to some amusement park. More and more [th]e city is deserted on a summer holiday. It has be[co]me increasingly difficult to hold public exercises be[ca]use so many people leave town.

All these changes make a fitting celebration of In[de]pendence Day very difficult. It has become a day like [oth]er days when men are released from toil. Each cele[br]ates the day in his own way. The ball park, the [cou]ntry club, the amusement resort draw the great [cro]wds. And very little is done to make real, on that [day], the value of American institutions, the sacrifices [ma]de to establish them and preserve them, and the qual[iti]es of character on the part of our citizenship to per[pet]uate them and strengthen them.

It would seem as if those who are peculiarly inter[est]ed in what is best in our American life, should plan [for] those places where the people are apt to be on that [day], exercises at once attractive and inspiring, so that [the] great ideals which the day suggests might become [the] possession of all the people.

Here is an opportunity for those who value the true [Am]ericanism to be of real service.

THE EXODUS TO EUROPE

These are the days when the trans-Atlantic steam[er]s are crowded with tourists bound for Europe. Every [co]mmunity is sending its little quota. Once a luxury [fo]r the privileged few, it is becoming an ordinary privil[eg]e for the many. It is not long ago that the man or the [wo]man of the community who had crossed the ocean was [ma]rked as a creature of unusual opportunity. Today [th]e man who has not crossed the Atlantic at least once [ha]s not rounded out life.

What all these people get out of Europe depends en[tir]ely upon what they carry with them. It is said of a [ce]rtain man who had acquired a fortune in business that [he] decided to travel. Everybody was going to Europe. [So] he went. He landed at Liverpool, and he soon tired [of] the place. Everybody was going to Chester, a city [no]t many miles away, where still remain some fine speci[m]ens of the old Roman walls. One of the things to do [in] that city is to walk around the walls, and, by using a [lit]tle imagination, a man may conjure up the life of two [th]ousand years ago.

This well-to-do business man followed the crowd to [Ch]ester. There was nothing there of particular inter[es]t to him. He stepped up to the hotel clerk, and asked [if] there was anything going on in the city that might in[te]rest him. It was a fine moonlight night, and the clerk [su]ggested that tourists generally enjoyed walking [aro]und the walls of the city on a moonlight night. Our [bus]iness man, never having heard of the old Roman [w]alls, answered with some heat, "Do you think I'm a [to]m-cat?"

For such as these a trip to Europe means very little. [The]re is scenery in America just as grand as any that [ma]y be seen in Europe. Life at the resorts, whether at [Ostend] or the Riviera, is not much different from Coney [Isla]nd or Atlantic City. The discomforts of travel are [some]what greater than they are in this country. And [on t]he whole the food is not so good.

It is unquestionably true that to enjoy a trip to [Euro]pe culture and education brings more than money. [Tha]t is why professional people and school teachers get [mu]ch out of a European trip.

However, no matter how much or little culture a[ny] may have, most of those who return will speak with [a great] deal of confidence about European conditions. [...] every club and every sewing society will be [...] of these tourists about their trip. And most of what is imparted will have value only as the person carried something over. But this should be said, the most uncultured will be a little broader for having taken the trip.

KOMICAL TELEGRAMS

By JIM ARMITAGE, Himself.

Emil Meschke, the "Big Swede" city fireman, is spending his vacation in his old home town in Wisconsin. It's the first time he's been back home in several years. He wrote the boys at No. 1 station "I like this place all right, but it's getting cleared up, now when a fellow wants to sit down and take a rest—he has to walk too far to find a tree stump.

Max Goldstein and John Halpin were discussing the merits of the Ku Klux. Neither of them seemed a bit worried. Halpin said "The Jews have all the money and the Irish seem to know how to fight. He didn't mention the colored folks [...] it wouldn't be a bad idea to buy them a gold tooth and let them laugh it off.

Harry Hinkson and Doc Agate were fishing up in Michigan. Doc was casting for bass—as a caster he must be a pretty good dentist—he threw his plug and it landed—not where he intended, but the hook went right through Hinkson's ear. This was a serious situation, the plug belonged to Tim Terrell and when they wanted to cut the hook to remove it—Tim protested. "Save that wooden minnow and cut off his ear—it won't make any difference, he's heard about everything, anyway."

"Suds" Sotberden ain't afraid of snakes. "Of course," said "Suds," "when you wake up in the morning and one is coiled up right on your blanket—that's different."

Conan Doyle says he is going back to England and advocates the adoption of prohibition. Doesn't seem consistent with his views upon 'Spirits coming back.'

A woman can throw a ball about half as far as a man. Statistics show that she can jump about two-thirds as far. There don't seem to be any record of it—but I'd like to know where "mere man" would stand in a rolling pin throwing contest.

Noticed a want ad in last Tuesday's Chronicle-Telegram. "FOR SALE—TWIN MOTORCYCLE. In A-1 CONDITION. Inquire 135 School Street." Now if that was a "Twin Baby carriage" they might find a buyer—But one of them motorcycles is "too much." Keep the twins.

There seems to be a lot of opposition to Dempsey fighting Wills the colored champ—but "Where there's a Will there's a way."

Lorain Chief of Police issues orders to the two lady members of the force to "Wear knickers."—The chief seems to be doing all he can to make the job attractive.

They used to say "There's a fool born every minute." Now a Detroit manufacturer goes them one better. "There's a FORD born every seven seconds.
